Our voice

informal

For entertainment purposes

VOICE

Our voice is positive and clear, with a playful touch. And yes, it's occasionally a bit dramatic, just like the flock's personality.

2.

tone

We use a playful and friendly tone with our audience to reflect the brand's values.

3.

Our language is simple, to communicate our message clearly. With a dynamic rhythm, we use playful terminology like "sebs" or "henlo".

POSITIVE, FUNNY, FRIENDLY

formal

For educational, serious or formal purposes

In this case, our voice becomes professional while remaining as positive as the situation allows.

2.

tone

We communicate our message with a scientific tone, keeping it as simple as possible, so it is understood by all types of audiences.

3.

LANGUAGE

Our language is informative and straightforward to educate and inform through clear messages. This approach makes our message more understandable.

POSITIVE, INFORMATIVE, STRAIGHTFORWARD

Verbal system

chirp your way around.

The tagline is short and easy to remember, which describes our essence. It can be used in promotional content or merchandise.

whether you are looking to have a good time
— or learn a thing or two, we are here for you.

Our claim is an affirmation that gives a clear vision of the brand. It can be used in the same applications of the tagline.

Our slogan is a simple but effective message that usually goes with the logotype.

caring for birds, creating better lives.

This sentence describes the educational content of our brand. It's intended to be used in a more formal environment.

Verbal strategy

phonology and syntax

Because our voice transmits a positive and simple message, we use clear pronunciation with a friendly tone. The intonation is cheerful and has to reflect enthusiasm and happiness; we want to transmit positive emotions to our audience. A fluid and dynamic rhythm helps evoke these sensations. Finally, we use the onomatopoeias, like “chirp” or “boop.”

All these features apply to both informal and formal language, with the exception of the onomatopoeias, which only apply to the informal one.

Our syntax is formed by creative and spontaneous sentences in the informal language. Words are modified to sound more playful and childish, just like the birds’ personalities; for example, instead of “hello,” we say “henlo.” The sentence structure for the educational and formal language is informative and has a clear structure, so the message is easy to understand.

lexicon and semantics

Depending on the context, formal or informal, we use a lexicon with colloquial or technical expressions.

For semantics in the informal context, we use language that evokes emotions of tenderness or sarcasm. The goal is to give the birds a voice. Regarding the formal content, we use an objective language that conveys the knowledge clearly.

These are just guides for you to understand how we relate and speak. After all, human communication is very variable and ultimately depends on each individual. It is important to follow this guide for communication through digital platforms; direct communication is open to common sense.

this is how we talk!

Storytelling

We use the following storytelling techniques to communicate our stories through all broadcast channels. Use this technique as much as the situation allows it.

Stella can't fly properly; she has never learned to fly, although she's still quite young. But the other day, she did something incredible! After completely destroying her Sola toy, she flew all the way back to the cage on her own!

Immerse the audience directly in the story.

2.

Tell a personal story.

3.

Use suspense.

4.

Give the story life and use the personality of the characters.

5.

End with a positive message.

Logotype

primary logo

The geometric composition ensures readability and visual impact. This design communicates a combination of professionalism and amusement, making the logo memorable and versatile for different applications.

The primary version includes the symbol and slogan on the brand.

Symbol

A simplified, happy yellow face of a cockatiel is our main symbol. It's the essence of our brand that represents our values and personality. This one is the version that will accompany the logo, but we made two other versions to include the rest of the flock.

When applied individually, they will maintain this form and colors.

Variations

These are all the possible versions of the logotype with the mascot and the slogan. As you can see, we are very flexible and the versions can be adapted to the structure you need.

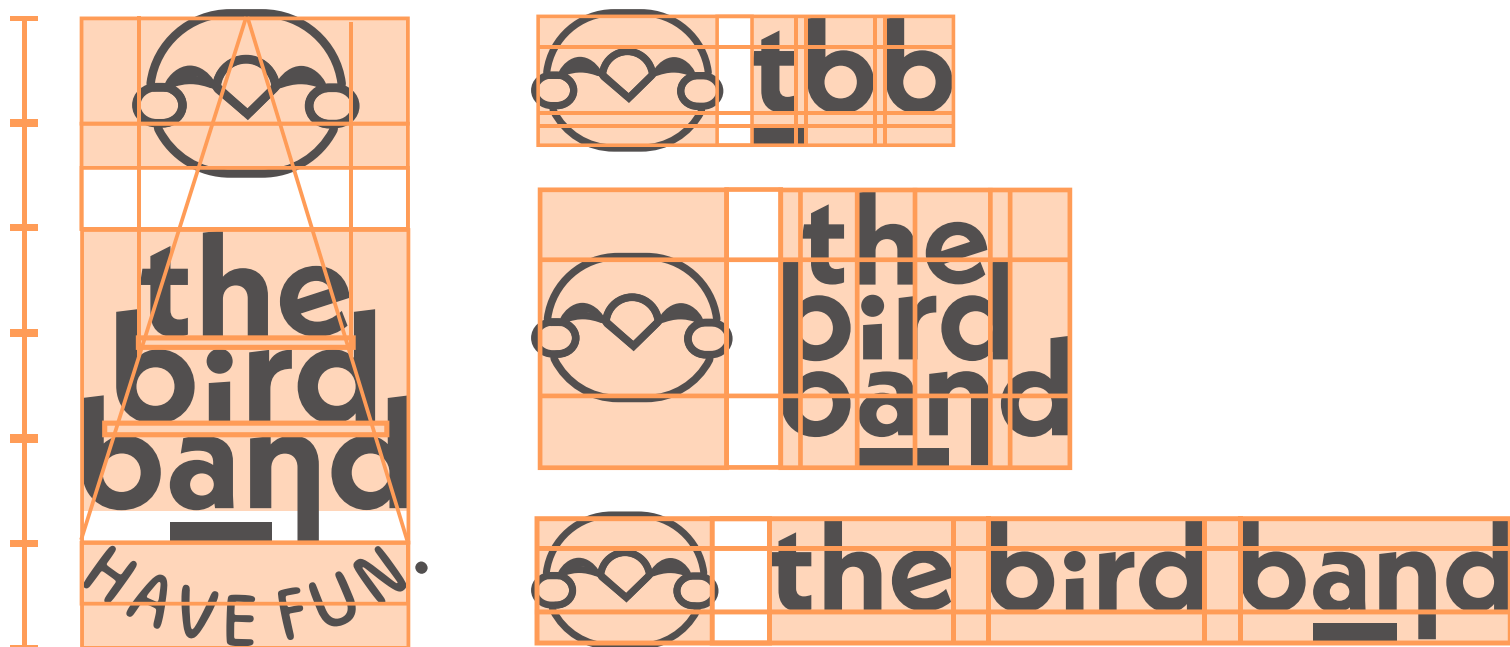

Graphic construction

The typography is modified for the logo, this means it cannot be reproduced using just the font.

The logotype and its versions are built by these reticles, and they all maintain a similar proportional relationship by giving importance to the text.

Respect area

It is important to keep the margin of the logo in order to keep it readable and visible on any support. We use the symbol to establish the respect area.

Sizes

It is necessary to set a minimum size for the logo. By doing so, we ensure that it can be viewed and read well in small sizes. Always try to use the largest possible size.

For the logotype versions use the elements on this chart to measure the size.

color guide

In this document you can see how we apply some of the colors. But to ensure how it works, this is a basic guide on how to use the colors:

1. WHITE BACKGROUND

For titles, subheadings, and numbers that are not in the text (dates, page numbers, etc.), we use the primary color earth yellow. For shapes and icons, we use the same one, or the jasmine color.

2. EARTH YELLOW AND MEDIUM GRAY BACKGROUND

To provide high readability and contrast, all the information in these scenarios will be applied in white. Although shapes can be applied in medium gray and jasmine for earth yellow background, or silver and earth yellow for medium gray background. If the design needs to be monochromatic, it is better to always choose a composition that emphasizes the color earth yellow.

3. TEXT

For text and their headings in a white background we use the color Davy's gray. Thanks to this, we increase readability and contrast.

4. MASCOT

The rest of the colors are used for the mascot and its variations to represent de different birds in the flock. And they are only used in these cases.

Neue Kabel

This sans-serif typeface communicates our values and personality. It is formal enough for sharing educational content, but the geometric composition in lowercase helps evoke friendliness and proximity. We use the bold font for the logo and titles, while the italic version, both regular and bold, is used for subheadings. This structure ensures a good hierarchy of information. For primary headings, we add a horizontal line below the first letter; the word starts in lowercase (except for proper nouns), and it always ends with a dot “.”. This structure helps differentiate our design, adds dynamism, and maintains consistency with the logotype.

This typeface is used for the slogan and titles in the text. Its geometric, sans-serif, and carefree shape brings a more fun look to the composition.

It is always used in bold capitals for a well-structured composition.

Finally, the Lora typeface is used for text and numbers outside the text, such as page numbers, like you've seen so far.

The reason for using a typeface with serifs is to improve the readability of the text, making it more fluid.

Graphic resources

icons

Because we want to make our message clear and easy to understand it's very important to use visual elements that help assimilate the information. The horizontal bar is used as a visual resource to connect information!

The icons are always monochromatic, use the first version (earth yellow or white) when the background is dark. Use the second version in negative when the background is clear or if a background for the icons is needed.

shapes

The icons above help complement the information being shared. So, we use the following shapes to maintain a visual brand. In this case, these shapes are organic and contrast with the previous geometric forms. These shapes are used to complement the images. They are always monochromatic and the negative version doesn't affect the design.

Background applications

Medium gray background with silver color

Incorrect uses

Avoid these mistakes:

Negative version in the wrong background

Don't add filters, shadows or strokes

Don't change the colors in any version

Don't change the color disposition

Don't modify the logo's proportions

Don't apply this version in a clear background

Don't apply this version of the logo in a dark background

Don't use the color jasmine on the medium-gray background

Respect the logo's area

Photography style

Our images are a big part of our identity, they are always edited with the same presets to ensure a cohesive style. Highlights and whites will need to be adjusted depending on the images' light.

no background

The images with no background are used to enhance the look of the design. You can apply them to a white background and the primary colors of the brand. Unlike the previous ones, these images are not edited with the same parameters, only the brightness and saturation are improved if necessary.

Social media

This is our social media profile picture, across all platforms. It is easy to identify and recognize us. Also used as favicon.

This is an example on how we apply the verbal and visual identity of the brand on an Instagram carrousell for educational content.

These are more examples of educational content as Instagram carrousell using the primary colors as background.
